

The Philadelphia Inquirer Names Graham Company #3 Top Workplace

Philadelphia, PA (April 22, 2019) – Graham Company has been awarded a Top Workplaces 2019 honor by the Philadelphia Inquirer, ranking number three for the midsize company category in Philadelphia. This marks the tenth consecutive year that Graham Company has been named a top workplace in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia Inquirer’s Top Workplaces list is based solely on employee feedback gathered through a third-party survey administered by research partner Energage, LLC, a leading provider of technology-based employee engagement tools. The anonymous survey measures several aspects of workplace culture, including alignment, execution, and connection.

“At Graham Company, we know, and truly believe, that talent is the lifeblood of our organization. What makes us different is that we are 100 percent employee-owned, which uniquely positions us to actively invest in our people and build a strong company culture around professional growth opportunities and shared business goals,” said Karen Boyle, Vice President of Human Resources at Graham Company. “This goes beyond offering attractive health packages and a cool workspace, although we do provide these benefits, and more, to our employees.”

In 2017, Graham Company became 100 percent employee-owned through an Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) Trust, which provides company stock to employees as part of their retirement benefit plan. The move embodies the commitment Graham Company has to its employees and their professional success. Through this model, employees feel empowered to build a long-standing career at Graham Company, focused on making the business the best it can be.

“Being recognized by the Philadelphia Inquirer as the number one top workplace in the area validates that we’re creating a place where our employees love to be every day and that they also feel personally committed to the success of our clients,” said Boyle.
